I decided to redesign Craigslist. I wanted to simplify the window so it isn't as cluttered. In my design, I compounded things into side or click navigations so you can see the general categories and be able to navigate accordingly. With the items pages, I made it much neater. The whole idea behind this redesign was to keep it as close as I could to the original design but have it much cleaner and simpler to use. There are easier links and tabs to access to on every page and every font is bigger than the original. I'm sure most of Craigslist users are for the older generation so it was best to magnify everything for easier reading. Everything in my design is organized and you will know what to click to get where.
